In this kaleidoscopic collection are some of the best political cartoons since Independence by Rajinder Puri. Used as a vehicle for spreading public awareness on the burning issues of the day, these cartoons give us a glimpse of Puri's virtuosity as a prescient columnist, fearless writer, and activist. His work exudes a certain directness and purity of purpose that continue to impress and intrigue discerning readers in its combination of realism and humour. No matter how controversial some of Puri's cartoons seem, his vision of the society, politics, and life will continue to play an important role in contemporary culture.

Partha Chatterjee is a filmmaker, critic, and journalist, who has written on the arts for leading Indian newspapers and magazines like Economic Times, Tehelka.com, New Indian Express, Frontline, and Fountain Ink among other publications. Lives in Delhi.

Arvindar Singh is a consummate columnist and entrepreneur. His works include a biography of former Prime Minister Morarji Desai. He wrote a monograph on Field Marshal Sam Manekshaw for the United Services Institution of India (USIS) in 2003. He does regular reviews for Penguin Random House publishers, and is an advisor to the literary festival, Valley of Words, held in Dehradun. Associate Editor of the Security Journal Defence Watch for many years, he has also been associated with Bharatiya Vidya Bhavan.
