In 1952, Edmund Hillary failed to scale Mount Everest in his maiden attempt. After a few days he was asked to share his experiences with a group of mountaineers. He shouted, “Mount Everest you’ve defeated me this time. Next time, I will defeat you.”

“In the jungle, the deer knows that it will have to run faster than the tiger if it wants to save itself. The tiger too knows that it will have to run faster than the deer to get its prey or else it will die of hunger. So both these animals run. But the one whose action is faster will survive. If your actions are right and on time, you can make any situation favourable.

‘Keep your goals in mind, work towards achieving them, and then watch them come alive. All the achievements in your life are dependent upon your actions. Without a positive attitude, the right thoughts and meticulous planning, everything is in vain. If you can believe in it, then you can do it.’”

The book provides a strong base for people striving to achieve success. It helps them to reach out for the skies, using will power and determination.

Shikher Dubey, a Master’s in Business Administration, has worked with several multinational organisations. He now runs a successful business and at the same time manages to find the time to write motivational literature.

Dreams are the imagination of our future. So it will not be wrong to say that today’s dreams make our future. Expanding your dreams will mean expanding yourself as a person entitled to fulfill the dreams. It’s a perception among many people that dreams are only imagination and they never come true. That it is almost impossible to live up to your dreams. This is certainly true to some extent. Nothing is going to help your cause by dreaming alone. Your efforts to make your dreams come true are more significant. At the same time, people without dreams are incomplete people.

Dreams provide a positive attitude. If you have the capability to dream big, then failures really don’t hold any significance. Dreams have had a vital role to play in the achievements of all successful people
